

SAINT LOUIS ABBEY

Fr. Laurence
December 17, 2007

Yesterday's Gospel showed us that Jesus was descended from a very human ancestry. Today's Gospel shows that he was divine, born not of a human father but through the Holy Spirit. It is this divine-human person that we consume when we receive the Holy Eucharist: the body and blood of Christ eternally united to his divinity. Let us admit him into ourselves more deeply this Christmas, that he may heal us and take away our sins. The very meaning of his name is that he came to save us from our sins, to be our justice, our righteousness. He wishes ever more fully to live his life in us.
